

Salary as a Manager

Answering your salary questions when it comes to your future as a Manager!

Questions for Salary Implications as a Manager

Question 1

Should I go to School?

Question 2

What's the best industry?

Question 3

Is there a gender pay gap??

Quick Insights on the Data Set

25,439

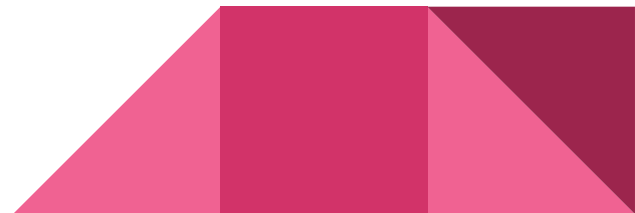

Managers

$101,416

Avg. Salary

46

Avg. Age

Should I Go To School?

44%

- By going to college, you can expect to see a 44% raise in your yearly salary as a manager
- Is it worth it?
  - Most Definitely!
- Is a Master's Program Worth It?
  - For just an 8% raise, probably not...

Which Industry has the Biggest Pay??

Technology

On average, Managers in the technology sector see a 13.5% higher salary per year than the healthcare industry....

Choose your career industry wisely!

Male/Female Pay Gap??

6.1%

- The average difference in salary between men and women in the same industries and at the same manager level is 6.1%
- Industry doesn't influence the gap too drastically
- If you're a women, fight for equal pay

Conclusion:

1. If you're looking to become a manager, you should consider going to college
  - a. 44% pay bump just by getting a degree
2. While industry isn't as influential as education level, researching industry salary is important to understand where you can get the most money as a manager
  - a. Tech industry at least 6% more than all other industries
3. Women Managers still experience a 6% pay gap in comparison to men
  - a. Do you're research on manager salary for your industry when looking for a new position or raise